

To All Our Concerned Friends Living Overseas

On March 11, eastern Japan has experienced a massive earthquake, and its northeastern regions have suffered a tsunami of unprecedented scale, resulting in many lost lives and lost homes. It causes us great pain and grief to witness in the news the extent of the destruction.

However, the whole country is now united in its determination to reach out to the people who have suffered the destruction, and the areas hit by the tsunami have already started to take their first steps to reconstruction.

Fortunately, Asagaya College of Art and Design, located in Tokyo, did not experience any damage to its school buildings or facilities.

Although concerns remain regarding temporary electricity shortage in the Tokyo metropolitan area, its effects are minimal and life in Tokyo remains unchanged. As for the much-publicized accident at the nuclear power plant, its distance from Tokyo is 150 miles and the radiation level outside the 20 mile radius evacuation zone is absolutely negligible.

So please rest assured. All school events starting from April - entrance ceremonies, classes - will be held as scheduled. You are welcome to contact us at any time should you be interested in studying with us at our school.

We thank you for your concern and look forward to your continued interest in our school.
